T. I. I. I. I. I. I. APPENDIX A

decrest.m

function [Cxde, th]=decrest(X,NUM_CHAN)

```
th=rms(amp)*10^(dec/20);
Be=firls(16, [0 fp fp+130e3 (1.2288e6*2)]/(1.2288e6*2), [1 1 0 0], [1 le3]);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       Be=firls(16, [0 fp fp+130e3 (1.2288e6*2)]/(1.2288e6*2), [1 1 0 0], [1 1e3]);
z=20*log10(max(abs(X))/rms(abs(X))); disp(sprintf(' Baseband Peak to Average Ratio before decresting= %1.3f dB %disp(sprintf(' rms of the original signal %1.0f ',rms(X))); %disp(sprintf(' peak of the original signal %1.0f ',max(abs(X))); rms of the peak signal %1.0f ',rms(Er))); threshold %1.0f ',th));
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        Bx=zeros(16,1); Bx(16/2+1)=1;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            th=rms(amp)*10^(dec/20);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           Er2=[Er(2:end) Er(1)];
Er3=[Er(end) Er(1:end-1)];
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               %First stage Decresting
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      %Decresting filter
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         %disp(sprintf('
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          I=find(amp<=th);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         Er(J) = amp(J) - th; %disp(sprintf('
                                                                                                                                                                  phase=angle(X);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  J=find(amp>th);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  Be=Be/max(Be);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                      if NUM_CHAN > fp=1.8e6;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         fp=0.6e6;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      dec=4.1;
                                                                                                                                         amp=abs(X);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            dec=6;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     Er(I) = 0;
```

decrest.m

K=find(Er>Er2 & Er>Er3);

E=zeros(size(Er));
E(K)=Er(K);
E=E.*exp(j*phase);

% find the local peak

```
k=find(abs(X)>th);
%disp(sprintf(' Number of peaks not decrested = %1d ',length(k)));
%figure; plot(filter(Bx,1,abs(Er))); hold on; plot(abs(filter(Be,1,E)),'r--'); %plot((filter(Bx,1,abs(Er))),'g--');
,1,abs(Er))-(abs(filter(Be,1,E)))),'g--');
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               % the amplitude of the
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    , ( (z,
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               Baseband Peak to Average Ratio after first decresting= %1.3f dB % find the local peak
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        z=20*log10(max(X)/rms(X)); %disp(sprintf(' Baseband
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   Er3=[Er(end) Er(1:end-1)];
K=find(Er>Er2 & Er>Er3);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      %Second stage Decresting amp=abs(X);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           Er2=[Er(2:end) Er(1)];
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       E=zeros(size(Er));
E(K)=Er(K);
E=E.*exp(j*phase);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               E2=filter(Be,1,E);
E1=filter(Be,1,E);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        X=filter(Bx,1,X);
                        X=filter(Bx,1,X);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          I=find(amp<=th);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       \operatorname{Er}(J) = \operatorname{amp}(J) - \operatorname{th};
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           J=find(amp>th);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    phase=angle(X);
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 Er(I) = 0;
                                                    X=X-E1;
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            signal
```

N decrest.m

Cxde=X-E2;

```
k=find(abs(Cxde)>th);
disp(sprintf(' Number of peaks not decrested = %1d ',length(k)));
%figure; plot(filter(Bx,1,abs(Er))); hold on; plot(abs(filter(Be,1,E)),'r--'); plot((filter(Bx,1,E))),'g--');
1,abs(Er))-(abs(filter(Be,1,E))),'g--');
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   ;((z', rms of the error signal %1.0f ',sqrt(rms(E1)^2+rms(E2)^2))); rms of the decrested signal %1.0f ',rms(Cxde))); peak of the decrested signal %1.0f ',max(abs(Cxde))); Baseband Peak to Average Ratio after second decresting= %1.3f dB z=20*log10(max(Cxde)/rms(Cxde));
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               %disp(sprintf('
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      %disp(sprintf('
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          disp(sprintf('
                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     disp(sprintf('
```